FIELD DAY ON BOOZE QUESTION

SACRAMENTO, March 21.—Another field day on the booze question loomed when the Assembly reconvened today. With resolutions asking a modification of the Volstead act, amendments describing the illegal traffic in high-spirited liquors as above and beyond the control of the enforcement officers, and a substitute measure in the offing for the Harris enforcement act, the lower house of the State Legislature has a warm time ahead.

Assemblyman Greene wants to have a special tax placed on vine and beer, in the event that Congress should decide to modify he Volstead act, and the money derived from that tax turned nto a fund for enforcing the prohibition law against manufacurers of liquor with a high percentage of alcohol. He would mend the resolution of William Hornblower, seeking modificaion of the Volstead act, which came up as a special order of usiness on today's file, so that the hands of the enforcement officers might be upheld.

An effort is to be made tonight in the soldiers and sailors committee of the Assembly, which has under consideration the service program of the American Legion, to reach a compromise by which a cash bonus proposition will be included in a state bond issue. Joseph Burns of San Francisco has introduced constitutional amendment No. 23 and will ask for a bond issue, not o exceed $20,000,000, to take care of the returned service men. The Legion program calls for home aid, vocational training and and settlement. Burns, Ross, Mitchell and McPherson, as members of the committee, are in favor of giving the ex-service man he privilege of taking a cash bonus of $15 a month if he prefers to the Legion plan.

Mrs. Saylor's anti-capital punishment bill, exempting minors nder 18 years of age, is due to be brought up in the Assembly oday.

PROVIDE INDUSTRY FOR PALESTINE

American-Palestine Company, a $5,000,000 Corporation, Formed

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 21.—Formation of a $5,000,000 corporation, the American Palestine Company, to promote commerce and industry on a large scale in the Holy Land, was announced here last night at a dinner attended by 250 of New York's leading Jewish business men, interested in the project for the immediate development of Palestine by American methods. Louis Marshall presided at the dinner.

Dr. S. Benderly, managing director of the company, who recently returned from an extended survey of industrial and commercial conditions in Palestine, in outlining the plans of the company, said:

"There are a number of industries in Palestine, but they are hardly above the primitive stage. They lack both the mechanical and financial facilities of the modern industrial center. Under Turkish rule, capital was afraid to enter Palestine. Now with an era of safety, stability and progress inaugurated by Sir Herbert Samuel, British high commissioner governing under the mandate granted Great Britain at the San Reno conference, conditions have changed.

"Existing industries in Palestine need capital and modern business organization. The American Palestine Company will supply these needs by building modern factory lofts, installing central power plants, purchasing large-scale machinery and raw materials for manufacturers, advancing them credit on their manufactured goods and organizing their sales operations."

Dr. Benderly stressed the point that the company was an organization of business men, that it would be operated on a strictly business basis, with a 6 per cent return on the investment, so that adequate capital could be secured at once to carry on the developmen of the Holy Land, which the Jewish people, particularly the persecuted and impoverished Jews of Eastern Europe, were given the opportunity of rebuilding as their national home under the terms of the British mandate.

Samuel C. Lamport, president of the company, announced that almost $2,000,000 had already been subscribed. Reuben Sandowsky, Israel Unterberg and Samuel Rottenberg are others of New York's leading business men who helped organize the company.

CLAIM VICTORY IN PLEBISCITE

By FRANK E. MASON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 21.—Although the German press claimed overwhelming victory for Germany in the upper Silesia plebescite, official advices received during the course of the day showed that the Poles were successful in some districts. The German Foreign Office concede Polish victories over the Germans in the Pless and Rybnck districts in the southern part of upper Silesia. The interallied plebescite commission, which had made a careful study of racial conditions, had previously forecast a Polish victory in those areas. An outbreak of shooting was reported from Kattowitz.

SAILOR SAYS IDOL BRINGS BAD LUCK

(By International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., March 21.—In far-off Nagasaki the street lights burn dim where there may chance to be such a thing as a street light. Down on Nagasaki's waterfront, where the scum of 50 nations stirs restlessly, Abe Franklin, able seaman, accosted and bargained with an Oriental vandal.

No rickshas disturbed the deserted alley where Franklin counted out 1000 yen and received for this small fortune a priceless gold-lacquered Buddha. Abe, the able seaman, asked no questions of the vendor as to the place from whence the sacred miniature statue had been taken. Until the greedy fingers of the Nipponese Judas itching for the feel of foreign gold filched the blase little god this gold Buddha had sat undisturbed in its sacred shrine and watched over the fortunes of many worshipping children of the Rising Sun.

While the bearded priests of the temple slept and the almond-eyed gold god was unprotected, the vandal of Nagasaki violated the shrine. Buddha was borne away. But the soul of Buddha moved in accents disconsolate, and by some telepathic message the cassocked priests of the temple were stirred, were up and after the vandal. But the sacrilegious pilferer of the mystic shrine chose those streets of Nagasaki where there were no lights.

And here's where Abe, the able seaman, came to the rescue of the holy scapegrace of cherry-blossom land. Abe just had about a thousand yen on his person, enough for a rickscha ride and a Japanese tea-cake, and the deal was forthwith consummated.

A fusilade of shots warned of the coming of the priests of the temple, rushing through the murky alleys of the waterfront of Nagasaki, some of them in danger of tripping over their beards. A mad chase and a dash by Abe for the dory which lay by the wharf, peacefully rocking from side to side in the gentle swell.

Escapes to Steamer

One jump, oars in hand, and Abe shoved away from the wharf. The muttering priests drew nearer, the distance of open water between the dory and the dock spread wider, the firing of the Orientals went wild. Far out in the harbor Franklin found his tramp steamer and clambered safely aboard. His captain did not learn of the escapade. But the curse of an empty altar hung heavy over Abe, the able seaman.

Months later the tramp steamer put into Portland. Abe had kept his Buddha treasure a secret from his messmates. The forecastle talk knew naught of the ominous presence of the yellow man's god. Abe sought out a curio dealer and again tried to bargain. But the curio dealer was indeed curious. This was no ordinary Buddha, this gold-inlaid icon of the Nippon mystic. The curio dealer temporized and told Franklin to call the next day. Abe called the next afternoon and completed his arrangements with Inspectors Coleman and Collins. Franklin is in the city jail awaiting trial on a charge of vagrancy. Buddha's gone home to its altar and the priests of the temple in Nagasaki are no longer tearing their hair.

The sweet orange originated in Southern China and Cochin-China.

CARL BERNAUER DENIES HIS GUILT

(By International News Service)

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., March 21.—Stoutly denying his guilt, Carl Bernauer, 21, son of an Indianapolis police officer, went on trial today in the circuit court here, charged with the murder of Samuel Eaids, a Syrian confectioner, in Indianapolis on October 22, 1920. Eaids was shot down in his store by a "stick-up" man, who robbed his cash drawer of $30.

Bernauer was indicted for the murder of Eaids after Charles Jones, who was arrested with him in connection with the theft of automobiles, made a formal statement, in which Bernauer was accused of entering the Syrian's place on the night of the killing "to hold up the hunkie." Jones is also charged with murder.

POLICE SEEKING FOR A HIDDEN MOTIVE

(By International News Service)

AYER, Mass., March 21.—Police investigators today were seeking a hidden motive in the slaying of Vincent Paul Plancish, 19, Boston University law student, by his stepfather, Eugene Drioly, a farmer of Littleton. Drioly confessed to the police that he beat his stepson over the head with an axe while the latter was asleep on a couch in Drioly's home. Drioly said the young man had annoyed him and threatened Mrs. Drioly and himself. A charge made by Drioly that the boy chased his mother from the house into the woods was denied by Mrs. Drioly. After killing the young man Drioly went out and hunted up a constable and gave himself up.

ANOTHER SHOWER FOR MISS LUSBY

One of the prettiest of the many social affairs with which Miss Margaret Lusby has been honored was given Saturday by Mrs. Seymour Smith and her mother, Mrs. J. G. Huntley, at the Smith residence, 416 West Wilson avenue. St. Patrick dominated the function from the decoration of the house with shamrock and white carnations, supplemented with ribbon streamers of green, white and gold, to games and refreshments.

The first part of the afternoon was devoted to a game called "The Ring Quiz," a guessing contest of special interest to brides, which created a great deal of merriment. For this, large white cards were passed which bore a shower of green ribbon, each strand of which bore a golden bell. The accompanying pencil was green and a bar of the music and words of the Lohengrin bridal chorus was printed in gold across the card. On the reverse side were directions for playing the game which was new to all in the company. The first prize was won by Miss Ida Potter, who correctly answered every question. It was a bronze candlestick containing a green and gold candle. The booby prize, which went to Miss Josephine Emery, was a green and bronze incense burner, and both trophies were presented to the guest of honor.

About that time a huge green jardiniere, filled, apparently, with an immense shamrock plant, was brought in and placed before the bride-to-be, who was instructed to pluck the blossoms. She obeyed and plucked with them the cover from the jar, revealing a beautiful array of miscellaneous gifts each of which was withdrawn and displayed for the admiration of guests.

Following the shower guests were seated at small tables where a two-course luncheon was served. Each table was centered with a white doily on which stood a cut glass candlestick carrying a large green candle. Nut baskets repeated the color and the place cards, the clever handiwork of Mrs. Huntley, were pasteboard platforms for little kewpie brides wearing long tulle wedding veils and carrying green umbrellas. On the cards was written: "I am going to Oakland."

Guests were: Mrs. C. D. Lusby, mother of the honoree, Mrs. C. R. Lusby, Mrs. E. U. Emery, Misses Waunita, Josephine and Olive Bell Emery, Misses Mary Logan, Eunice Peart, Martha Ray and Doris Ingledue, Mrs. Mabel Meibergen, Misses Leone Shattuck, Muriel Turner, Margaret Gregg, Ida Potter, Virginia Huntley, and Mrs. Dorothy Weller.

BURTON KUNTZNER IS HOST TO FRIENDS

Burton Kuntzner, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kuntzner, was host to 16 of his young friends, eight girls and eight boys, at a dancing party at his home, 809 Ross street, on Saturday evening, in honor of his 15th birthday anniversary.

Enlisting the aid and the good taste of his mother, Burton used the Easter motif in the pretty decorations of his home, as well as in the prizes and luncheon favors.

Bunco was the diversion of the early evening hours, partners being chosen by means of gaily colored Easter eggs. Dancing was the principal pastime of the pleasant affair, and a very fine luncheon provided by the young host's mother was the finishing touch to Burton's celebration of the anniversary of his natal day.

Professor Shedd accompanied the body of his mother back to the old home in Marietta, O., where it will be interred. The L. G. Scovern Company had charge of the arrangements.

Tomorrow will be Reciprocity Day at the Tuesday Afternoon Club when the Parliamentary Law section, of which Mrs. Harry Greenwalt is curator, will furnish an unique program.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. LOUIS TINNING

A wave of sorrow swept over the congregation of the Glendale Presbyterian church at the service Sunday morning, when announcement was made that Mrs. Louis Tinning, wife of the assistant pastor, had passed away in the early morning hours. She was known to be in delicate health resulting from a nervous breakdown, but no premonition that the end was so near had reached the friends she had made since coming to Glendale to whom she had already endeared herself. Dilation of the heart was given as the cause of the death which ended a beautiful and useful life which had spent itself for others. Capable, efficient, sympathetic, she had overtaxed her strength in meeting the responsibilities of a pastor's wife, and her passing is a crushing grief and loss to her husband, her 14-year-old son Graham Tinning, and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Graham of Los Angeles, who was with her when she died. Mrs. Tinning, who was but 44 years of age, was born in Winchester, Kan., was married in Des Moines, Ia., and had been a resident of Southern California for 10 years. Mr. Tinning resigned the pastorate of the Sunset Hill Presbyterian church at Hollywood to come to Glendale believing the change would be advantageous to his wife.

Services conducted by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, assisted by Dr. J. C. Pinkerton, will be held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Jewel City Parlors on North Brand, and interment will take place in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

He had been an active Knight of Pythias for 25 years and but last week received the knight's jewel to which his long and loyal membership entitled him. Services conducted by Dr Cornell will be held at the Jewel City Parlors, Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m.

THE MEASURE OF OBLIGATION

The Responsibilities Entailed by Opportunity the Theme of Rev. C. M. Crist

Dr. Crist's sermon at the First Methodist Church Sunday was enthusiastically received by the large audience. The theme, "Opportunity, the Measure of Obligation," was suggested by Gal. 6:10: "As we have therefor opportunity, let us do good unto all men." Dr. Crist said in part:

"The essence of Christianity, on the human side, is benevolence. It is not the man who prays most fervently, nor the one who sings most enthusiastically, nor yet the one who enters most earnestly into the formal worship of the church, that necessarily most nearly approximates the ideal Christian. These elements are not to be depreciated, in fact, they are fundamental in the plan of God; but the man who meets the present day demand for the expression of the Christian experience is the one who does good for Jesus' sake. 'Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my, brethren, ye did it unto me,' were the words of the Lord.

"The measure of obligation is opportunity, and the scope of opportunity, according to the text, is 'to all men.'

"Our text should be read by us like this: 'As we, members of the First Methodist Church in Glendale, have opportunity, let us do good unto all men.'

"We belong," said Dr. Crist, "to a great connectional church; we are a part of the greatest Protestant church in the world. One out of every 27 persons in the United States belongs to the Methodist Church. One out of every 12 is a more or less regular attendant on the Methodist Church.

"Methodism was never greater than it is today. There are those who pessimistically declare that our golden age, as a denomination, is in the past. This is not true. However great and glorious the past may have been, this is the brightest day of history. We rejoice in the great successes in the home field in the year just closing, but our greatest successes have been those of the foreign fields. While, until recently, 98 cents out of every dollar that has been spent in the work of the kingdom has been spent at home, with a 17 per cent gain as a result, the 2 cents of the dollar have brought a gain of 145 per cent. The response of the heathen world is staggering. A 100,000 in India await baptism by our Methodism. Bishop Thoburn said a few years ago: '10,000,000 idol worshipers of India may be converted in the next ten years if we provide the money and send the missionaries. I took 50 years to get 100,000, now in ten years, one-fifth of the time, we may have a hundred times as many.' As we contemplate the triumphal entry of Jesus into the ancient city we are inspired, on this Palm Sunday, with the onward march of the victorious Christ down the years!

"Thank God," said the preacher, "the exclusion walls are broken down and the gates are flung wide open to the Lord of Glory. But are we meeting the demands of the very success of the very success of the kingdom? The men of America spend more money for tobacco in one year than the whole church has spent for the missionary enterprise in 19 centuries."

At this juncture Rev. Crist suggested a motto that might be well adopted by all the churches of Christendom: "Every man needs Christ. Christ is able to supply every man's need. I owe to every man everything that Christ is to me."

Dr. Crist called attention to the fact that it was the day chosen by the local Woman's Foreign Missionary Society for their thank offering. Cards were distributed and a subscription amounting to almost $750 was received.

UNUSUAL SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Of unusual interest was the Sunday evening service at the First Methodist Church. The Jubilee Singers who were here a week ago were again present and gave a program of "spirituals," and between numbers, eight five-minute men made talks on a variety of subjects concerning community conditions in Glendale and issues to be voted upon at the coming election. The speakers were, W. N. Bott, C. W. Ingledue, C. D. Lusby, L. C. Leeds, Dr. C. R. Lusby, Elwood Ingledue, Kenneth Crist and W. F. Towers.

BROTHERHOOD ASKS IS THE WORLD BETTER?

Rev. C. M. Calderwood was the speaker of the evening at a highly successful meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist Church, held in the banquet room Friday evening, and for which about 50 covers were laid. His theme was: "Is the World Growing Better?" He first considered the past, from an historical viewpoint comparing it with the present. While he admitted world conditions and even conditions in the most favored portions of the world are not all we wish they were, he convinced himself and his hearers that there is a betterment and a continuing upward trend.

Delegations were present from the Baptist and Congregational Churches.

REV. G. W. SNIDER GUEST YESTERDAY

Rev. G. W. Snider of Los Angeles, was the guest yesterday of Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor of the First Lutheran church. Mr. Snider occupied the pulpit at the Lutheran church yesterday, the pastor being indisposed on account of a bad cold. Dr. Funk is reported as very much improved today.

HOLY FAMILY CHURCH LENTEN DEVOTIONS

Holy Week, or Passion Week, the last week in Lent, is being observed quite generally by Glendale churches.

At the Church of the Holy Family, special Lenten devotions will be held, including the receiving of Holy Communion on Holy Thursday, by a large number of the members of the parish. Holy Thursday commemorates The Last Supper, the institution of the blessed sacrament, and is also called Maundy Thursday, so called from the ancient custom of washing the feet of the poor on this day, which was taken to be the fulfilment of the "new commandment," John xii:5-34—the name "Maundy" being derived from the Latin word meaning "to command." On Friday, at 3 o'clock, the hour of Christ's death, the Way of the Cross will be said at Holy Family church.

At St. Mark's Episcopal church there will be no Holy Thursday services owing to the fact that the parish has not a resident pastor. Those wishing to commemorate the institution of the Lord's Supper will attend Episcopal churches in neighboring communities. There will be a Good Friday service at St. Mark's at 10 a. m., and in the evening the Episcopal and Congregational church choirs will give Stainer's "Crucifixion at St. Mark's at 7:30.

The First Lutheran church will have special services on Good Friday and the Central Methodist church has special pre-Easter services on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

The First Methodist church, besides the regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting, will hold a special service on the evening of Good Friday, and at the West Glendale Methodist church the Wednesday night prayer meeting will be a pre-Easter service.

On Friday afternoon at :30, the ladies of Wednesday afternoon Bible class of the Glendale Presbyterian church will be in charge of a pre-Easter service for women. All ladies of Glendale are cordially invited, and if they wish to bring their little children, an attendant will care for them while the mothers attend the service. Bible study will be conducted by the teacher of the class, Mrs. J. R. Baker; her topic is "Woman's Place at the Cross."

At the Congregational church Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be given by the Congregational and Episcopal church choirs at 7:30 on Wednesday evening.

SIX SERMONS FROM SINGLE SCRIPTURE

Theme of E. E. Ford

Seats were at a premium at the Baptist church Sunday evening to hear the pastor, Rev. Ernest E. Ford preach the second in the series: "Six Sermons from a Single Scripture." The congregation joined very earnestly with the pastor in prayer that the Heavenly Father would bind up the broken hearts of two families, where the death angel had come and borne away a dear one; and that the Great Physician would spare the lives of two mothers, who are in the hospital, hovering between life and death, as a result of an operation. All hearts were very tender as the pastor led the worshipers in consideration of the thought of "Christ the Truth."

"Pilate asked the question, "What is Truth?" Our own hearts are asking it today. Truth is conformity to fact. We have a Sunday school class called "Philathea," meaning lovers of truth; we are all members of that class or impostors. Every one wants to know the truth; nothing is so relentlessly pursued. From the time that the little child asks—"What is it?" until the time, when by the fireside of life, and the day is near its close, old age looks inquiringly toward the west and wonders what is over the hilltop, where the sun has gone to rest. The schools, from kindergarten to university, are seeking to know the truth. The congregations come to church that they may learn more about God, and their relationship to Him and to their fellowmen. The scientist, the philosopher, the astronomer, the geologist, spend their lives seeking to know the truth. But greatest of all, man wants to know the truth about God. And when you have apprehended a truth, you must believe it, and believing it, you must live it, or in God's sight you are a fake.

Truth is eternal, no such thing as "New or Old Truth." We may have just lifted the shade to our intellectual window, and the sunlight have come in, but the sun has been shining a million years. We do not speak of "New Sunshine." Jesus, who is the Truth, said, "Before the world was, I am." Truth is also infinite. Our plumb-line may run down into it, but it will swing clear; and we will say, "Unfathomable."

PAUL BROWN TO SPEAK AT SUNRISE SERVICE

Glendale people are fortunate in having Mr. Paul Brown for speaker at their Easter sunrise service. He is state president of the Christian Endeavor societies. Folks who have heard him will agree that it is worth the expenditure of a great deal of effort to hear him again. There will be other worth-while features also; a splendid song service under the direction of Dr. Joseph Marple, beautiful vocal and instrumental solos.

Come, everybody, to this inspirational service.

Fourteen Presidents were the sons of farmers or planters; three were the sons of clergymen. Andrew Jackson's father was a sexton and constable.

"THE UNCHANGING CHRIST" SET FORTH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Preaches on the Imperishability of Jesus' Words

It was a profound shock to the large congregation at the Presbyterian Church to hear that in the early hours of the Sabbath morning, Mrs. Tinning, wife of the assistant pastor, had passed away. Her illness had been brief and was scarcely known, and her death came as a sad and great surprise. Heart-felt sympathy of everyone is drawn out by this sore loss.

The morning's sermon by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, was from the text, in Hebrews 13:8: "Jesus Christ, the Same, Yesterday, and Today, and Forever." We, and all things in which we are concerned, are not the same. Change and decay are in all we know. We want to anchor to Jesus Christ, the same forever. On this day which we commemorate as Palm Sunday, he rode in triumphal entry into Jerusalem. Yet he came without a victor's smile. The Son of God was entering under the black shadow of the sin of the world which was laid on him; and the cross, and the guilt of sin, was before him. That was the passion of Christ. Do we know anything of that suffering for others? Christ today is the same, the world savior. To stop there at the cross is not the place for the believer. The living Christ now keeps us—we could not keep ourselves. We are always a part of him; and he is always the same. His passion must be manifested by the victory in our lives. God keeps His people who confess their sins.

In view of the coming great evangelistic work in this town, great responsibility lies on every one of us. God forbid that anyone should take it easy. Set your soul's house in order: God must purge if there is wrong there. You might be the Achan whose wrong would block the work of the Holy Spirit.

Give yourself over wholly to God. As by an ambassador of Jesus Christ, you are asked to make an unconditional surrender that will hold for all time.

CROWDED HOUSE AT BOTH SERVICES

Yesterday was a busy and helpful day at the Central Christian Church.

Rev. C. A. Cole's sermon theme yesterday morning was "In the Shadow of the Cross" and it had to do principally with the awful mental struggle of Jesus in the garden of Gethsemane, which, the speaker said, was more trying than the suffering on Calvary's cross. Lessons were drawn from his calm and uncomplaining acceptance of the insults and contumely heaped on him and Christians were exhorted to bear with patience the afflictions of this life. As Jesus was preparing, from childhood, for the great work of the last three years of his life, so the Christian should prepare every day of his life for the constant warfare with sin. Pastor and people were rejoiced at the close of the service when two young girls made the good confession and three adults took membership.

The music was especially fine. An anthem by the choir, beautifully rendered, was enjoyed by all, as was the congregational singing, and Miss Lotta Madden's solo, "The Living God," was a revelation in harmony. Her voice is sweet and powerful, fairly filling the house with melody. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Keppel.

The evening service was entirely in charge of the men's Bible class. The president, Lee Kaster, announced the numbers on the program and the officers and teachers were with him on the platform, all taking some part in the service. The other members of the class occupied the choir loft, that is, all who could be accommodated. Rev. Cole led a stirring song service at the opening and there were two special numbers.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE GLENDALE THEATER

"Smiling All The Way" is a thoroughly interesting and clever comedy-drama featured in today's program at the Glendale Theater, with David Butler as the star, ably supported by charming Leatrice Joy.

The story is a pleasing romance of the "glad" type, and the entire production is atmospherically correct. If David Butler keeps going at his present pace, "a Butler picture" may soon be as well known as "a Charles Ray picture."

The first episode of "The Son of Tarzan" is another feature of today's program at the Glendale Theater. This thrilling super-serial film is taken from the fascinating jungle romance of Edgar Rice Burroughs. It is different from all other serials; each episode is a distinct feature.

An added attraction is "The Mender of Nets," featuring Mary Pickford as she was eight years ago.

Tomorrow's program at the Glendale Theater brings Pauline Frederick, in "A Slave of Vanity," from Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's famous play, "Iris."

Theatergoers are looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to the coming of that distinguished actor, Lionel Barrymore, to the Palace Grand on Tuesday in "The Master Mind." Fatty Arbuckle in "A Reckless Romeo" is an added attraction of Tuesday's program.

VERDICT IN "TRIGGER" TRIAL "NOT GUILTY"

(By International News Service)

COURT HOUSE, WILLIAMSON, W. Va., March 21.—Sid Hatfield and his 15 co-defendants in the Trigger trial were found not guilty by the jury at 11:21 o'clock this morning.

ELKS BECOME SONS OF ERIN FOR A TIME

Most of the year we may be content to sing, "There is a Green Land Far Away," but when the seventeenth of March approaches, Ireland is brought very near. The Elks celebrated the patron saint of Erin last Saturday with an exceedingly pretty dance enjoyed by about 150 members and their ladies. Green featured the charming scheme of decoration carried out by the committee in charge. At each station was the head of a typical "paddy from Cork," with green hat and bogwood pipe, the illusion being made more complete by smoke of incense.

Green punch was dispensed throughout the evening and at the supper which followed the dance, green and white ice cream was served with French pastry. Irish melodies dominated the excellent music furnished by the Henning orchestra.

TAKE MOVIES IN GLENDALE

Comedy in the midst of real life is often seen in Glendale. Quite a group of citizens drawn together by curiosity had a chance to witness some "behind the scenes" work on Brand near Colorado Saturday afternoon when an incident in "Jolly Jottings from Judge" with James W. Horne directing, was photographed. It came pretty near being a green room experience with the grass and blossoming trees featuring the landscape.

DISTINGUISHED STAR VISITS IN GLENDALE

David Butler, star in "Smiling All the Way," came down Saturday from San Francisco, where he had had a strenuous week's work, to take a little rest. Wishing to see himself as others see him, he joined a party of friends and slipped into the Glendale Theater last night where the above mentioned picture was showing.

But Mr. Butler was not to realize his ambition to remain incognito. Manager Howe spied him there among his friends, had the spotlight thrown on him and announced his presence from the stage just before the first presentatioin of the picture. At its close the audience were so pleased with it that they tendered Mr. Butler an enthusiastic ovation. Many in the audience declared "Smiling All the Way" the very best comedy-drama they had ever seen.

Others in the party of artists were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lewis, appearing at the Glendale with Pauline Frederick in "Slaves of Vanity" on Tuesday and Wednesday, and Eugene Burr, appearing in "The Son of Tarzan," playing today at the Glendale.

CAN'T LIVE ON PRESENT SALARY

(By International News Service)

LONDON, March 21.—Interesting evidence on how inadequate the average member of parliament's salary is if he is without a private income was put before the select committee set up to inquire into members' expenses by Mr. Dan Irving, M. P., for Burnley.

"I reckon," said Mr. Irving, "that on an average I spend in London, after allowig for the time that I am away, $14 a week, which icludes postage, street car fares, food in the house and a single room in which to live.

Mr. Irving said the $1600 salary is now his only regular income. He had to give up his regular occupation when he became an M. P.

Out of this he pays $420 a year for his third class railroad fare.

He has to keep two homes, one in Burnley, where his family live, and the other in London, where he himself resides.

"To keep up these two homes," he said, "with my railroad fare brings my expenses up to $1480—not a cent for clothing, either for myself or my wife. One does not really live on the $1600 a year; I cannot do it.

"The only possible way that I could do it at all would be to abandon going home, except at the end of the session, and to give up my railroad pass.

Struggle to Live

"I have to devote time, attention and study to other methods of increasing my income; otherwise I could not possibly live.

"I feel," went on Mr. Irving, "sometimes a little sense of humiliation in mixing with my fellows, when I have to scan every item which I am called upon to spend when in company with other men of reasonable means, a sense of humiliation, because, I appear to be mean when other men are. I do not say extravagant, but able to act differently."

All throughout the war he had been sitting on public bodies "raising everyone's wages except my own," he complained, "and I no sooner escape from that and come here than I am faced with the same situation myself."

After some deliberation the committee recommended.

No change in M. P.'s salaries, but that no income tax should be charged on the salary.

"That M. P.'s should have free first-class railroad passes between London and their constituencies—but not their homes.

Free postage on parliamentary letters.

GROOM AT WEDDING WAS BEST MAN, TOO

(By International News Service)

ROOSEVELT, Mo., March 21.—Aaron Lovan, it is said, is willing to admit now that he was not the "best man" at the wedding of Julian Johnson recently, his boastful declaration that he was "best man" having resulted in a double fracture of the jaw when Julian demonstrated with his fists that Lovan was mistaken.

Lovan and several companions are alleged to have entered the wedding festivities as uninvited guests. Lovan declared that he was not only the "best man" of the company, but "could lick anyone on the Ridge," according to witnesses. When the bride remarked that he "couldn't lick her Julian," the festivities gave way to a fistic entertainment, in which Lovan and his brother, the Rev. Jeff Lovan, are said to have received severe maulings.

The bridegroom, arrested on a charge of felonious assault, was released on bond for a preliminary hearing.

JIMMY WILDE TO RETURN TO AMERICA

By JACK VEIOCK
International News Sporting Editor

NEW YORK, March 21.—Jimmy Wilde isn't discouraged over his knockout at the hands of Pete Herman.

Britain's little flyweight champion feels that he has an "out," as Herman was topheavy in the London bout, and doesn't believe his defeat will be held against him on this side as a fistic attraction.

As a result he plans to return to the United States in the near future to seek bouts with America's best, and he may even leave his calling card at Champ Joe Lynch's residence.

When Herman and Wilde met the little Briton weighed 108 pounds. Herman, who had agreed to make 118 was several pounds overweight, and at the outset Jimmy rebelled, declaring he would not go on. As there was no opponent to substitute for Wilde, however, the promoters prevailed on the flyweight champion to take Herman on regardless of the weight and he did so with disastrous results.

Wilde is the only real champion England has had in a fistic division for some time and he made such a favorable impression when he visited this country last year that his return will, no doubt, be welcomed by the boxing fans and he should be able to find plenty of opponents.

While we have Pete Herman in mind it is timely to note here that Joe Lynch, who dethroned the New Orleans boy, stands ready and willing to give him a return bout at any time. Eddie Meade, manager of Lynch, pens us these lines to substantiate Joe's promise to Herman before they were matched at Madison Square Garden:

"On December 23, the day following Joe Lynch's victory over Pete Herman for the bantamweight championship of the world, Joe and myself stated that Herman would be granted a return match providing he defeated Jimmy Wilde in the London bout. What Herman accomplished with Wilde is history now.

"The new champion up to date has participated in several ring contests, but is ready to go to the post with the ex-titleholder any time that Tex Rickard or any other leading promoter can sign the two boys to a set of articles to a 15-round contest to a decision.

"In a conference at the Garden a few days ago between Mr. Rickard and myself I was offered a chance to box Lynch with Midget Smith or Roy Moore to a decision at the Garden, but I declined the offer as Lynch has requested me to get Pete Herman for the first decision contest he appears in, as he wants to convince the skeptical that he is a real champion and one who stands ready to defend his title whenever he is called upon.

"I chased Sammy Goldman, manager of Pete Herman, for three years before Goldman would consent to box Lynch to a decision. After Herman lost the title he went on record as saying that he would chase Joe over the continent until he was given a return match. Herman can save a lot of money, time and railroad fare, as Lynch stands ready to meet the ex-champion any time.

"As numerous parties have asked me if Joe would ever box Pete in a decision contest I ask you to kindly publish this letter and let the fans know that Lynch intends to set a precedent as champion. This is the first time in the history of the boxing game that a champion ever agreed to give the defeated opponent a chance to redeem himself inside of four months."

Simple Set of Blood Tests Will Settle Parentage

ASSERTION HAS BEEN MADE BY DR. ALBERT ABRAMS, WHOSE SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERIES AND THEORIES HAVE STARTLED WORLD

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—"A simple set of blood tests will settle absolutely the parentage of Maby Guy Stillman."

This was the confident assertion today of Dr. Albert Abrams, whose discoveries and theories on Electronic medicine have startled the scientific world and whose determination of parentage by blood test has been accepted as final by the superior court of this city.

"Either of two tests would serve to settle the question at issue in the Stillman case concerning the parentage of Baby Guy," said Dr. Abrams. "A test of the blood of James A. Stillman and that of the boy would establish whether they are father and son. Similarly a test of the blood of Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide, and that of the child would establish whether there is any basis to the apparent charge made by Stillman. This latter test would be just as positive as the former, although of negative nature if the charges of Stillman are unfounded."

Busily engaged in his laboratories to which medical men come from all over the world to study his methods, Dr. Abrams declared that there had been no overtures to him from any persons connected with either side of the Stillman controversy. "Whether or not I would make such a test if asked to," he added, "would depend upon two factors. I am very busy. I would not let the matter interfere with my other work. And I am also slightly temperamental in such matters. That would be the other factor.

Dr. Abrams explained that it would be unnecessary for either party to the test to come to San Francisco.

"Only a few drops of blood of the child and a few drops of blood from either the father or the guide, forwarded to me under proper conditions would be required. The blood may be placed upon blotting or filter paper. Certain conditions would have to be observed, however, in securing the blood for the test and in forwarding it to assure its arrival here in proper shape."

The test used by Dr. Abrams is based upon the blood vibrations, that of parent and child vibrating in unison.

As a result of his researches into this hitherto unknown field of medical science Dr. Abrams is able, according to Sir James Barr, M. D., late president of the British Medical Association, who has studied his discoveries closely, to establish not only sex, race and parentage, but also diagnose various diseases—the latter being of major importance.

Dr. Abrams has so far differentiated 14 races which occur in the following order on the resistance coil: Japanese, Italian, Russian, Jew, Portuguese, French, German, Irish, Spanish, English, Chinese, Dutch, Danish and Filipino.

Taxicab drivers of Zion City, Ill., are thinking of migrating elsewhere. The city is getting too "good" for them. The Zion church, which rules the community, has decreed that hereafter taxis cannot be used on Sundays except to take church members to services. The decrease in revenue which resulted has proved a body blow to the taxicab companies.

THE CITY CHARTER

One of the important matters to be voted upon, but upon which very little has been said, is the City Charter. In the minds of many persons this word "charter," which is primarily a guarantee of civil rights and privileges, has a mysterious sound, but if they would get a copy of the document and study it, free from prejudice, they would discover that it is not proposing any radical changes. It provides, for instance, for a city council, elected as now; for a city treasurer and city clerk, elected as now, and for a city manager, to be appointed by the city council. That means a manager to be appointed by the men whom the people, by popular vote, have elceted to transact the city's business. But these trustees are all business or professional men, with affairs of their own which require a full day's work, six days in the week. The only time they can give to the city is in the evening. Meanwhile the business of a big corporation—for that is what Glendale's city government essentially is—must go on. There must be someone endowed with authority to represent the city council and act for it in the thousand and one matters of business constantly arising in connection with the administration of the city's affairs; someone to direct the work of subordinate employes along the paths laid out by the city council and capable of reporting to that body to what extent its instructions have been carried out. This somebody must be capable of bringing to the attention of the council the needs of the city as they are discovered. Unless he is in touch with all departments and invested with authority he can neither act for the council nor report to it. In commercial enterprises division of authority and jealousy arising therefrom has often resulted disastrously. Critics of the charter who question the wisdom of delegating authority to a city manager should think on these things and remember that the manager, whoever he may be, will be the board's hired man, to be employed or dismissed according as he measures up to the requirements of his task.

Some have suggested the commission form of government as a better one, but that would mean three or four high-salaried men and, under present conditions, with many needs pressing, it would not seem necessary to impose that burden on the taxpayers. Also, it would open the way to jealousy and, perhaps, conspiracy should ambitious, self-seeking men be placed in the positions. A city manager seems to be a need we cannot get away from. A manager who doesn't manage is of little value, and a manager without reasonable powers, subject to the authority of the council, cannot manage.

The chief advantage of a charter will be to make more elastic the powers of the city government. Under this charter, for example, the city could utilize its road-making machinery for the construction of new boulevards. According to the law under which it is now functioning as a city of the sixth class, it must let such contracts to the lowest bidder among private contractors. Its roadmaking machinery can only be used for the repair of streets.

The power of the city to acquire and operate public utilities will also be increased. These are the chief changes which the charter will effect. In the form and administration of the government there will be little if any change.

The city charter is an instrument to the framing of which 15 of the most capable, disinterested, loyal citizens to be found in Glendale gave weeks of study and conference. It is capable of amendment at any time, and if it is not perfect at the start we cannot go far wrong in giving it a test.

SPIRIT OF EASTER ONE OF SACRIFICE

"The spirit of Easter is one of sacrifice—the great sacrifice was made then. That sacrifice has been made since in many lands by many individuals. But never in history has a whole nation made the sacrifice for the faith that the Armenians have made.

"It is not 'None of our business what happens to the Armenians.' They stand for a stubborness in what they believe—and what we believe—that makes their struggle our struggle. We can no more refuse to help them than we could let one of our divisions holding a sector in the late war be cut to pieces when we had the reserves to save it.

"We have the reserves of food and money and sympathy. We can do the job—do all of it. We can do it ourselves, without being told to do it by anybody, in any company of nations. It is not a political duty or a matter of commercial expediency. It is an opportunity—an opportunity to make our idealism a dynamic influence in the world, not just fine phrases.

"The man who has least among us has more than most in Armenia. It is one of the finest things in our history that, through the Near East Relief, the American people, from the richest to the poorest, unsolicited, have kept 110,000 children in Armenia from hunger and death, have saved a whole people from annihilation and have done it without fanfares or self-righteousness.

"And the American men and women who sign with me, ask that this work go on. It is an American work in the best traditions of big-hearted American generosity. It cannot falter or pause."—Leonard Wood.

GLENDALE SHOULD HAVE PARKS

Cooperation is not a dream of the sentimentalist or the idealist. It is plain, practical common sense; a measure dictated by intelligent self-interest and approved by intelligence. Self-interest, if it is real, is enlighted by intelligence; the lack of intelligence causes the failure of many schemes of self-interest.

In community life for one to oppose a plan for civic betterment because it is not exactly in accordance with one's own views of what that betterment should be is not a demonstration of intelligent self-interest. To cite a concrete example of the above: To refuse to suppose the present park plan in Glendale because one personally believes it is better to have one central park and a number of smaller parks in various sections is not intelligent self-interest. To defeat the park plan proposed means to have no parks at all or, at least, to have none at all until a different sentiment can be fostered and the matter submitted again to the voters. Meantime, we need the parks; our children need them; they need the swimming pool. Self-interest dictates that we cherish our children and give them proper recreation places. Because we cannot have exactly our way, shall we defeat the bonds, saying, like a spoiled child, "If I can't have my way I won't play at all?"

A Chicago judge makes women take off their hats in court. Chicago women thought when they got the vote they wouldn't have to take their hats off to any man.

FEW CARE TO "SKIP SCHOOL"

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 21.—Two gymnasiums, a great swimming pool, a library, dance hall, cafeteria, auditorium, a stage, greenhouse and a drawing room. No, it's not a list of attractions of Chicago's newest hotel. The list is just a few of the things contained in the Lindblom high school, just completed, and as far removed from the little red schoolhouse of several decades ago as is the airplane from the prairie schooner.

"We are proud of our school for several reasons," said Harry Keeler, principal. "I believe ours is the only school where the botany students actually study plant life, plant seedings and do transplanting in their own greenhouse. We also are proud of our printing shop, our auto repair, electric, sheet metal and wood shops. We print all our own school programs and literature. Many girls are in the printing classes, too."

A feature of the school which is accomplishing great good among the students is the nutrition class. The pupils all are weighed at the beginning of the semester, and those who are more than 10 pounds under weight are not in the "nutrition" class.

"We serve 220 pints of milk in the middle of every morning to these children," said Miss Lillian Klein, gymnasium teacher and former army nurse, who is in charge of the little "noots," as the nutrition class children are affectionately called. "They have to rest an hour each day, during their gym period, and are not permitted to do the active gymnastics and dancing until their weight becomes normal."

A visit to the big, airy, quiet room at almost any hour of the school day finds dozens of girls, warmly covered with army blankets, resting and sleeping on their cots. Ruth Radloff, who gained 18½ pounds in one semester, is the prize "graduate" of the nutrition class.

"It is amusing how their minds and their school work begin to improve when they start to gain weight," added Miss Klein. "So the system works for good, both mentally and physically."

There is a branch of the public library in the schools, the walls of which are hung with Abbey's holy grail pictures. The huge stage and velvet curtains of the school auditorium would put that of many a loop theater to shame. There is a miniature stage, too, an exact duplicate of the large one, for which the students make stage scenery in miniature, as a pattern for that of the school productions. The school room is a charming drawing room, with soft rugs, gate leg tables, window chairs, and a tea wagon. There the mothers of the students are received and it is the domain of Miss Courtenay, dean of the school. In the big cafeteria more than 2000 children are fed at lunch every day.

EGGS USED FOR CHIPS IN POKER GAME

(By International News Service)

BILLINGS, Mont., March 21.—An egg is an egg—in Montana—and it is also a poker chip with some of the ranchers and settlers on homesteads which have not, for the past two years paid very liberally on the investment because of the unusual drought and accompanying light crops.

Every Montanan plays poker, be it "stud" with the "sky the limit," or a little friendly game of penny ante. It's the nature of the westerner to court chance and lay a wager on the turn of a card or a horse race.

But limited finances have been a handicap to many of "the boys" who were wont to while away the long winter evenings out on the ranch in a little quiet game with the neighbors. Bets and the ante got down to such low figures that interest in the game waned until a fertile mind among them recently hit upon a "circulating medium" in the form of "hen fruit" with which to stimulate the play.

Neighbors became curious as to the contents of baskets being gingerly carried of an evening to some particular neighbor's home. Housewives, accustomed to depending on the "egg money" for a new apron or material for a child's pinafore, wondered at "them hens falling off so of late."

And, again, the merchants themselves have wondered at the sudden success of one rancher as a poultry fancier, while another, recognized in the past as dependable in doing his bit to supply the egg market, appears to have had decidedly poor success of late.

"GLEN AND DALE"

The Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor Convention opened in Whittier on Friday afternoon with a goodly number of delegates registered. Glendale was well represented by the delegation which went over on Friday in a special car properly tagged for "Glen and Dale, June 25 to 29," and when Saturday evening had arrived it had increased to more than 100. Sunday evening our delegates reached 14: with 20 Juniors who registered at the Junior Rally, Sunday afternoon. At the two banquets held from 6 to 7 Saturday evening, Glen and Dale were much in evidence, giving yells, etc., for the Glendale district. Following the banquets the young people went to the Friends church, where a large crowd had gathered for the evening session, and after a rousing song service "Glen and Dale" in real Spanish costume led a procession of nearly 100 Glendalians (wearing real sombreros with bands around the crowns on which were printed in large letters "Glendale"), in a grand march down one aisle of the church and back another aisle returning to the front of the auditorium, where "Glen and Dale" in the persons of Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts and Mr. G. Clifford Riggs sang a real Glendale song inviting the entire audience to Glendale June 25 to 29. The sombrero folks then sang several other Glendale songs and Rev. Clifford Cole of the Glendale Christian church told in a few well chosen words of the rapid growth of Glendale. He left his hearers with a deep desire to come to Glendale in June, assuring them that if they came to the convention they would get what they wanted. The sombrero delegation sang another Glendale song and gave a rousing Glendale yell, taking up their onward march which led to the choir loft where the large sombreros were so much in evidence that it looked like a real Spanish gathering. The Glendale district society banners were conspicuous in all parts of the auditorium and an immense Glendale sign on the balcony gave evidence that Glendale is expecting to entertain the Christian Endeavorers of the state of California in June. After the delegation was seated in the choir loft responses were given from the various districts in Los Angeles county and out reports from nominating and place of meeting committees. The address of the evening was by Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the Glendale Presbyterian church on "The Unchanging Christ—Today."

James A. Newton of the Newton Electric Company is the chairman of publicity on the local convention committee and much credit is due him for the splendid way in which Glendale was represented at Whittier. Howard L. Brown, chairman of the local committee was in charge of the songs and Harry Marple led the yells. Many of the young people of Glendale went to Whittier on Friday and stayed through the entire convention. Sunday afternoon several autos with Juniors went over for the afternoon Junior Rally. These conventions mean much in the lives of the young people and when June 25 to 29 has come and gone Glendale will have had a splendid opportunity to demonstrate to the young people of California what it means to attend the largest and best state Christian Endeavor convention ever held in this state, and at the same time to know what it is to be the host of this group of Christian people.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MILDRED RANDOLPH

In celebration of the eleventh birthday of her daughter, Mildred, Mrs. Ina M. Randolph gave a three-course dinner at 6 o'clock Friday, at which a group of girl chums were entertained, viz.: Garnet Lord, Virginia Buriff, Mary Frances Schweren, Jessie Brown, Mildred Fife and Mildred Randolph. St. Patrick and Easter emblems were combined in the decorations and appointments, the favors being little Easter baskets tied with green. Sweet peas and carnations graced the centerpiece and were used elsewhere in the decoration of the house. Following the dinner the girls enjoyed an evening of games and music, the program including a hunt for the gifts of the honoree, which had been hidden to give spice to their presentation.

Nebraska now has the honor of being the most "automobiled" state in the Union. It has one motor vehicle for every 5.9 persons, as compared with the country-wide average of one for every 11.8 persons. Iowa, which last year had the best average, dropped this year to fourth place. Besides Nebraska, South Dakota and California slipped ahead of it.

DANCE AT HOME OF GEORGE HERALD

Mr. and Mrs. George Herald and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Dempsey were hosts and hostesses at a St. Patrick's party Friday evening at the Herald home, 118 West Windsor. Marigolds were effectively used in the floral decorations which made a pretty setting for the affair. The luncheon served at the close of the evening which was devoted to dancing, was also a reminder of St. Patrick. Guests were: Messrs. and Mmes. Bert Ward, Walter Jones, J. F. Thompson, of Glendale; Charles McQuigg, A. Snyder, Jack Sweet, Jesse Colby, Thomas Baird, Chester Lindrose, Ed Colby, of Hermosa Beach.

INQUEST OVER BODY OF A. J. M'OSCAR

(By International News Service)

STOCKTON, March 21.—A coroner's inquest was to be held this afternoon to determine the facts in the trampling to death of A. J. McOscar, a prisoner in the alcoholic cell of the countf jail. J. Crimmins, alias Mike Kelly, will probably be held on charge of murder as a result of the inquest.

McOscar's body, his face crushed to a pulp and his chest caved in from the trampling he had received, was discovered late last night when officers took another prisoner to the cell. Crimmins who had been booked at Kelly was the only prisoner in the cell with McOscar and admitting "having a fight" with McOscar. He claimed he could not remember what happened afterwards.

Other prisoners told the sheriff that the fight occurred shortly after 6 o'clock, at which time the jail was locked up for the night.

HOTEL PROJECTS FOR GLENDALE

Four substantial citizens of Glendale are said to be tentatively considering separately a proposition to erect a hotel in this city. The talk has not gone far enough to take visible form in plans and specifications, or even sites, but it is a hopeful sign that men who are doing things for the upbuilding of our city are beginning to talk over the project. On one point most of the citizens who have discussed hotel possibilities appear to be agreed. That is, that the hotel which would do Glendale the most good would be a tourist hotel in a scenic location with golf links adjoining, beautiful grounds, and picturesque architecture. The commercial hotel is circumscribed. It is merely the convenience of the traveling man who wants a shelter for the night and who expects to go out for his meals. He is not looking for luxury and he expects to pay only the standard moderate rates expected of commercial hotels. He is strictly a transient with no intention of locating here or investing money in local property.

The tourist hotel, on the other hand, would cater to visitors of means the winter. In nine cases out of ten, if they are made comfortable and shown the beauties and advantages of life in the golden state, they begin to think about a permanent home, and in the end become citizens and boosters.

In the north end of our city, against the foothills, there are many sites peculiarly adapted to hotel purposes which might be made very attractive to eastern guests. They would be well above the frost line and well above the commercial activities of the town, yet in close touch with it and Los Angeles by trolley and automobile.

We do not always realize that Glendale is as close to the business heart of Los Angeles as are many parts of Los Angeles and that this fact should be capitalized. Glendale has made a growth in excess of 350 percent without a local hotel. What could she not accomplish with a hostelry where guests desiring to look the municipality over could find comfortable accommodations?

Five acres of natural park in the foothills; a most beautiful home site, located about 7 miles northwest of Pasadena, about 5 miles north of Glendale, having a frontage of 783 feet on Honolulu avenue, in that beautiful valley of La Crescenta-Canada, 3 miles west of Flintridge.
There is a magnificent growth of live oaks, sycamores, willows and cottonwood trees, mostly oaks of good size. There is about 1½ acres with very few trees, suitable for planting to garden stuff, fruit trees, etc. There is a magnificent house site about the center of this property, surrounded by beautiful trees.
There is a most wonderful Japanese swimming pool on the property.
This 5-acre tract is one of the few properties of its kind near Los Angeles. It has an elevation of about 1500 feet.
It has been laid out as a park, with winding drives, walks, etc. The soil is a decomposed granite, rich with leaf mold and decomposed vegetation.
The climatic conditions in this section are exceptionally good, being cooler in summer and warmer in winter than the average foothill or canyon property near Los Angeles; due to the elevation, there is little or no frost in this section. The surrounding foothills protect this property from hard winds.
An exceptionally beautiful view of the Sierra Madre range.

BONDS TO BE VOTED ON MARCH 29

One of the important measures to be voted upon the city election on March 29, is the item of $83,000 for bonds to be used to build a civic center for the young people of the community. It is a well-known fact that many of the young men of the city, after they have completed their high school work are provided with no good clean amusement place in the city. If entertainment is desired, and what young people do not demand recreation, there is no place afforded here where it can be had. It is generally understood that it is the plan, provided the bonds carry, to buy enough land near the center of the city to put up a building which will contain a well-equipped gymnasium, with rooms, offices and headquarters for different kinds of acttivities. With this as a headquarters and by utilizing the various athletic grounds surrounding the different school buildings this will become an active center for all athletic activities.
It is a well understood fact that the leisure time of the young people is one of the things that determines the real character of the individual. It is important that the community should take responsibility in the matter and this can be not better done than by affording a good clean place of amusement and recreation for the young men and women of the city. Judging by the vote in favor of the bonds which were previously called for, but later found invalid, it is the sentiment of the community that we should provide for a place of this sort and it is to be hoped that the previous vote will be confirmed. Serious consideration should be given to this important item and it is hoped that the bonds will carry by a large majority.

"PASSIONATE PILGRIM" AT PALACE GRAND

Matt Moore and Rubye de Remer, two of the best known players of the screen, have the leading roles in the Cosmopolitan production for Paramount, "The Passionate Pilgrim," which will be shown at the Palace Grand Theater today for the last time. The support generally is one of unusual excellence and their portrayals add much to the enjoyableness of the picture.
The story deals with a novelist whose career is ruined through a murder committed by his mother-in-law, and who later finds happiness and love after many thrilling incidents have transpired. Rubye de Remer, an invalid heiress, plays an important part in his life's work. The story is based on Samuel Merwin's famous novel, and the picture was personally directed by Robert G. Vignola with artistic results.
Eddie Barrie in his latest two-part Christie comedy success, "Mr. Fatima," is a "scream," they say.

More than half of the vehicles used by the postoffice department are now motor driven. Their use effects a big saving in time and money, the department reports. During this year 4000 more trucks will be put in use. They were obtained from the war department when the war ended and would have been used sooner if governmental technicalities had not prevented.

MAYOR STEVENSON, MANAGER WATSON MAKE ADDRESSES

The meeting of the West Glendale Protective League at the high school tomorrow evening will be addressed by Dwight Stephenson, chairman of the Glendale board of trustees, and T. W. Watson, city manager.
Mr. Stephenson's subject is the proposed city charter, copies of which will be at the meeting for distribution as far as they will go. Mr. Watson will talk of the $100,000 bond issue; his talk will deal largely with the general financing of the water business.
The meeting will be called to order at 7:45.

FOUR CANDIDATES ALL GOOD MEN

Editor, Glendale Daily Press:
Dear Sir—May I have the privilege of expressing a few ideas through the medium of your paper regarding the selection of two trustees for the high school board in the coming election. It was not originally my intention to voice any opinion in this matter as I count all four of the present candidates as friends and anything that is stated herein is most decidedly intended to be of a friendly nature.
In the first place, I do not believe that any one in Glendale could have selected, even after mature deliberation, four more worthy candidates. Three of the men named can be considered as old residents of our city and the fourth, while comparatively new to this locality, has already become well known to many of us. In the method of their selection, however, and in the means used to further their candidacy, it might be wise to pause and consider several things.
Mr. Chandler and Mr. Phelon announced their candidacy first and I understand they consented to have their names used upon the earnest solicitation of many of their friends. Dr. Brown and Mr. Watson were selected by the Federated Brotherhood as candidates to represent them and consented, therefore, to enter the race also upon solicitation of many of their admirers. This move upon the part of the Brotherhood I believe to be a mistake. It is possible that many of those associated with this organization, which undoubtedly is a force for good in the community, after thinking this matter over carefully, cannot but come to the conclusion that it is not wise nor advisable for an organization of this kind to enter the political arena. The framers of the constitution, many of whom were religious, foresaw the inadvisability of such action and to the limit of their ability endeavored to guard against it. It seems to me it would have been far wiser had those of the Brotherhood who favored selection of Messrs. Brown and Watson formed a separate organization to advance their interests.
This brings me up to the point that is, perhaps, nearer my heart than any other phase of the situation, namely the entrance of the ex-service men into the problem. Saturday, in one of Glendale's dailies a petition was printed, signed by some ex-service men endorsing two of the four candidates as also being ex-service men. Likewise, there had previously been publicity given to the effect that Dr. Brown and Mr. Watson were ex-service men. In view of the fact that Mr. Phelon is a veteran of the Spanish-American war who saw active service in the Philippines and is therefore just as much an ex-service man as the other two, it appears manifestly unfair that two out of the three should be given any advantage on that score.
As one of those who served in the late conflict and as a member of the Glendale Post, American Legion, I can certainly lay claim to having the interest of service men deeply at heart. Other things being equal I will always support a comrade who served in Uncle Sam's forces. There is a tie which binds us together and which will never break. It must be clearly understood, however, that the Legion does not enter partisan politics and the spirit as well as the letter of its constitution must be obeyed.
Speaking as an ex-service man and also as a citizen of Glendale who desires to see our city and schools governed by the ablest, wisest and most efficient public servants we can select, I believe we should vote for the candidates we individually consider best equipped for the office to be filled regardlss of thir affiliation with any organization whatsoever.
ROBERT C. PLUME.

TRUSTEES ELECTION IS THE REAL ISSUE

There exists today in the state of California a condition which is so far removed from being a theory, that it is engaging the attention of all classes from members of the legislature down, and has even caused the chief executive to discuss the subject in a special state wide series of arguments to establish his particular views on the situation.
This condition, briefly stated, is that the costs of government in California are extremely high, as compared with those of the other states; that these costs are increasing in a percentage far ahead of the increase of population or of material wealth, and, finally, that they are becoming burdensome to the people when they and them brought to their attention in the concrete form of a heavy tax bill, which admits of no evasion. ("Your money or your property," is its ultimatum.) California we are boastful of as a place where one may live with as little persecution from the elemental forces of nature which lay so heavy a toll on the vitality and material means of dwellers in less favored climes. We pay no bills for removing vast amounts of snow from our streets and walks, no heavy expense for protecting those same streets, water pipes, etc., from the effects of frost, and it is doubtful if a Native Son of the Golden West would understand should you mention to him "double windows" and "banking the house." A long list of these items might be compiled, and we sum it all up in the statement: "One can live so much more comfortable at so much less expense in California."
What is true of the individual in his home should be true in his public activities, and when he finds it is not he is inclined to place the blame on the first convenient agency at hand, which is usually his local municipal or county government.
And what has all this to do with the election of two citizens to serve on the board of trustees of Glendale Union High School? Just this—every department of government in the state is accused of gross extravagence in the spending of the public funds, by both the press and citizens of unquestionable information and veracity, as for instance, J. A. Graves, president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Los Angeles. Does this criticism apply to education? Our present state budget in the face of falling prices calls for a 50 per cent increase in revenues, the entire budget amounting in round numbers to $81,000,000, of which $44,000,000 are for education, or 54 per cent. Our county last year in round numbers expended $14,500,000 for schools, or over 61 per cent of its entire expenditure. (See page 32, annual report.) In the city of Glendale we find an urgent and immediate demand for an additional sum of money to provide room for the school children, which seems to be beyond our power to raise under the laws governing bonded indebtedness limits, and yet we have actually torn down an eight-room school building and replaced it with a new eight-room building which, with some additional land, cost over $100,000, and some of the children now have to use the janitor's store room for a schoolroom. W. A. Doran, assemblyman from the eighteth district, says: "All good Americans are friends of the schools and favor adequate pay for efficient teaching (he is right), for the state and counties expended $46,000,000 last year for educational purposes. When such an enormous sum does not supply sufficient salary for the real teacher, 'something is rotten in the state of Denmark'."
The citizens of Glendale are all good Americans, proud of their city and want to be proud not only of their schools but of their school buildings, and it seems to me we are all somewhat to blame for the present conditions. We have not foreseen our rapid growth and formulated a comprehensive and standardized system of providing in advance sufficient land for use of each district, together with a unit system of buildings planned to ultimately care for all the population. A uniform, pleasing type of school building adapted to the climate and history of California, would be an asset to any town. Now in Glendale, we have four candidates for two vacancies on our high school board, each and every one of them is highly spoken of. They are all good citizens, competent, able and respected, but two of them have publicly stated that they have no preconceived notion or set opinion in regard to what their course will be if elected, indicating that they have given the subject little thought. On the other hand, the two candidates first in the field, Charles L. Chandler and W. R. Phelon, have devoted in the past much time and effort to advance what they believe to be the best interests of Glendale in educational matters. They have a well-defined, clear-cut policy for the future, leaving our mistakes in the past, where they belong. They have publicly announced that policy and are willing to devote in the future as much more time and effort to formulate, and if possible, to carry out the plan of an economical and standardized building program to cooperation with that of the grammar schools. This one thing, alone, is a matter of vast importance to Glendale right now, "a consummation devoutly to be wished."
Voters of Glendale Union High School District, you will make no mistake when you go to the polls and vote for Charles L. Chandler and W. R. Phelon.
GEO. W. WOODBERRY.

PARKS AND CAMP GROUNDS FOR CITY

Voters should not forget the election March 29 and the fact that they will have the opportunity to vote for or against the bonds for $66,000 for parks in the city of Glendale. A representative of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, last week attended a meeting of representatives of similar chambers in Southern California cities to discuss parks and camp grounds While other representatives were discussing their systems of parks and auto camp grounds that were provided in their cities, all the Glendale representative could do was to hope he would not be called on to state the conditions in this city. This simply shows that Glendale has neglected to use foresight in providing for anything of this sort. This election will give the citizens of Glendale an opportunity to provide facilities for the beginning of a park system that will be a credit to the city.
This bond issue will be divided into three parts, $22,000 for each of three parks. It is understood that the $22,000 for the park in the northwest portion will be used to pay off the $5,000 which is still due on Patterson Park and the balance will be used to construct a swimming pool. $22,000 will be used for securing a park in the southern part of the city and a like amount will be used to secure a site for a park in the eastern portion of the city. It is a well-known fact that if park sites are not secured early in the life of a city, it is almost impossible to get them later and the cost is prohibitive. It is time that Glendale make progress along this line and provide for the present, at the same time looking to the future.

VOLSTEAD LAW RIGIDLY AMENDED

By W. H. ATKINS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 21.—Dry leaders today were sharpening their axes. They plan a smashing attack in congress for rigid amendments of the Volstead law if they fail in attempts to reverse the sweeping opinion of former Attorney-General Palmer "liberalizing" the dry laws. Several prohibition leaders conferred today as to their next move as a result of which temperance organizations may combine their programs in an early drive upon congress.
Rebuffed in efforts to have the department of justice reconsider the Palmer decision which nullifies existing regulations governing wine and beer for medicinal purposes and removes limitations upon manufacture and distribution of non-beverage liquors of all kinds, the dry leaders were in a defiant mood, and were ready to make further trouble for the wets in both houses of congress. Their program is being framed quietly and no blare of trumpets will precede their march to the capitol. Most of the prohibition advocates today were entirely non-committal as to their plans, apparently not wishing to disclose their hands to the opposition.
